

Thursday, June 10, 2010

For Immediate Release:
Contact: Mike Kehoe 573-680-3428

Jefferson City, MO – Mike Kehoe, small businessman and Republican candidate for the 6th District State Senate seat, is excited to announce a district-wide effort to reach out to hear from voters in the District. The Mike Kehoe for Senate Campaign unveiled plans for a “Flapjack Tour,” which will consist of a series of community visits throughout the 5-county Senate District. The campaign is inviting all citizens from the 6th District to join them for complimentary pancakes and coffee in 24 different communities.

“I believe strongly that it is important to interact with voters throughout the 6th Senate District. I want to hear directly from voters about their concerns regarding the most pressing issues currently facing central Missouri. Input from all of the communities throughout the District is welcome and will be of great use to me should the voters choose me to represent them in the Missouri Senate,” Kehoe said.

In addition to hearing about concerns from voters, Mike is excited to discuss his small business background and fresh perspective. Mike has a track record of creating jobs and managing a business through some very challenging times. After 23 years of running a small business employing 75 people, Mike understands firsthand the challenges we face. He plans to use this perspective to help bring family supporting jobs back to the District.

Kehoe stated, “Our campaign is focusing on the key issue of getting people back to work. Central Missourians want to see a more focused effort to get the state and national economy back on track. As a small business owner, I understand that. Central Missourians take pride in working hard, providing a stable environment for their families and giving back to our communities. For these reasons, I am particularly anxious to hear about our communities’ specific concerns and solutions to get our economy moving. Our economy is diverse. I want to hear from anyone who is interested in seeing some fresh ideas and common sense solutions make their way to the state capitol. Besides all that, I cook a mean pancake.”

The 24-day tour features stops in all 5 counties. It begins on June 17th in Jefferson City at the American Legion baseball field, and concludes on July 31 in Jefferson City at Riverside Park. The tour has scheduled stops in the following communities: Mokane, Versailles, California, Wardsville, Fulton, Iberia, Tipton, Stover, Holts Summit/New Bloomfield, Eldon, Laurie, Calwood/Williamsburg/Readsville, St. Elizabeth, Russellville, Auxvasse/Hatton, Mary’s Home/Eugene, St. Martins, Tuscumbia, St. Thomas, High Point, Lake Ozark, and Jamestown. For more information on specific tour stops, the campaign invites you to check out the “Flapjack Tour” link on the website at:

www.mikekehoeforsenate.com.